

What Men Want

Top Ten Takeaways

- 1 Men's basic relationship needs: to be appreciated, accepted, and admired
- 2 You can be a smart, strong, successful woman who doesn't need a man and still show him appreciation, acceptance, and admiration.
- 3 Men want to be needed. The issue is when you carry yourself as if you don't need a man.
- 4 There's a difference between needing someone, and being needy. Being implies you don't trust him, or believe in him to do the right thing on his own.
- 5 If you are his girlfriend, he doesn't think he can do better because he chose YOU.
- 6 Any criticism is better received if a man asked for it, as opposed to your unsolicited opinion about how he can change to better suit your preferences.
- 7 No advice is one size fits all. Tailor your dating approach to your personality, and to the guy himself.
- 8 Both men and women are confused in deciding whom to marry. Confusion is a people thing, not a man thing.
- 9 Any person who is not confused before committing to one person for life is probably blinded by chemistry.
- 10 The most important thing to a man is how he feels in your presence. If you're making him feel good, appreciated, accepted, and admired, there is nothing you can do better.